The Discovery in the next issue!

Hello

From the Editor-in-Chief

Finally, the holidays are here and you know what that means: PRESENTS, PRESENTS, PRESENTS! Here's our five-point guide for opening them:

- 1  Don't be a sneak! Wait until you've been given the present before you rip it open.
- 2  Some people carefully open their presents so that the paper doesn't tear and they can reuse it next year. (As if!) We say, let 'er rip! Nothing sounds sweeter than the noise of beautiful wrapping paper being shredded to get at what's inside.
- 3  As you open your gift, remember that not all presents are nice surprises. Try to look delighted, even if you just received socks or underwear from your great-aunt.
- 4  Go as slowly as you can. The faster you open presents, the sooner the fun is over.
- 5  When you're finished opening presents, start the countdown to next year's holidays!

Happy unwrapping and Adventure ON!

Saved By a Helicopter

I went to a local arcade with my cousins and brother. We wanted to race on the fake motorcycles, but they were occupied by a little girl and some guy who looked to be about 20. It turned out to be Mark-Paul Gosselaar (left) of "Saved By the Bell" and, I guess, his niece. We freaked out! By the time we gathered up enough courage to talk to him, he had left the arcade. But as we were getting into the car to go home, we saw him get into a helicopter and leave!

Sparky Goes HOLLYWOOD

"I've been waiting for your call!" said Sparky Mortimer when D.A. called to chat. With a name like that, we knew he was headed for stardom. Unfortunately for us, David Letterman got to him first.

When Letterman, host of TV's "Late Show With David Letterman," spotted Sparky, 10, on a Utah TV station's football pregame show, he said, "That kid cannot grow up to be anything other than a sportscaster. He's got the name, doesn't he?"

Sparky's been psyched about D.A. since he checked out our first issue six years ago and even wished we'd do a story on him. But when we finally called his mom, she thought we were only calling to renew Sparky's subscription!

On his name: His real name is David. He got the name Sparky when he ran through his house at 9 months old. His dad said he was so quick he left a spark behind.

Big break: Letterman invited Sparky to appear on the "Late Show" as a guest (twice!) and then to report on last year's World Series, Super Bowl and Grammy Awards.

Funniest moment: Sparky asked Dallas Cowboy Nate Newton if he could try on his helmet. It fit so well Nate said, "You know, you have a pretty big head for such a small kid."

D.A.'s fave clip: We fell out of our seats when Sparky asked Hootie & the Blowfish how they got a name like that. Lead singer Darius Rucker laughed and shot back, "What kind of name is Sparky?"

Country's New Crooner

By Debbie Barnes

Bryan White rates as country music's hottest young gun. At 22, he's had two top-selling albums, four No. 1 singles, and a new single, "That's Another Song," is climbing up the charts. He's won tons of awards and everywhere he goes, girls scream. D.A. made a quick visit to Nashville—Music City, U.S.A.—to find out firsthand if country guys really are nicer.

D.A.: Is country music cooler than rock?

B.W.: Not to down rock or anything—I like rock music. Rock is a major influence on today's country music. But I like country because that's what I grew up with, and it seems more emotional and it digs deeper into your feelings.

D.A.: What pop star would you compare yourself to?

B.W.: I guess I'd say Bryan Adams. His ballads are what he's famous for, and that's the same for me.

D.A.: Who should play you in a movie?

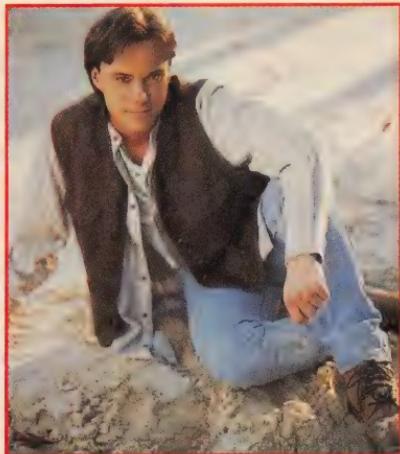

B.W.: Probably someone like Scott Wolf ("Party of Five"). He's about my age, I think.

D.A.: Do you play sports?

B.W.: Growing up, I played baseball. I played third base and right field. Those were good positions because I like action, but not so much action that I'm doing something on every play. I wouldn't want to play first base—I'd be too stressed out.

D.A.: If you couldn't be a country star, what would you be?

B.W.: A pro fisherman. I'd go around doing fishing seminars and stuff, and maybe have a TV show. I'd be on the lake all the time—any job that lets me do that would be great!

Borg to Be Wild

By Jennifer Egger and Liz Smith

D.A. had to be one of the first to set foot on the set of Star Trek: First Contact. No one was going to stand in our way. "Resistance is futile," as the Borg say. And a Borgism is appropriate, considering they're all over this new Star Trek movie. These half-machine, half-organic aliens travel back in time to the mid-21st century to destroy the Federation before it's created. To do this, they plan to kill or take over Zefram Cochrane (played by James Cromwell) before he creates warp drive—thus preventing the first contact with alien species.

Much of ST: FC is top secret, but the movie people did let us see the brand-new Enterprise E! It's smaller, sleeker and more crew-oriented. In the newly designed all stations and consoles facing toward him.

But, back to the big, bad Borg. For the first time ever, you'll see the leader of the Borg, the Borg Queen. "She's very sleek and attractive, but you wouldn't want to get too close," said makeup supervisor Michael Westmore.

We didn't mind getting close to Jonathan Frakes, though, 'cause we know he's one of the good guys. Jonathan, who plays Commander Riker and directed ST: FC, told us he believes in life in outer space, and he's ready to make an interplanetary trip right now! We asked him if he assembled a team for a mission, and could bring anyone from any time and any planet, who would he take? "I'd have to bring Data," Jonathan said. What, over Spock? "Well, I don't know Spock!" OK, OK, who else? "I'd bring Abraham Lincoln, Duke Ellington for music, Adlai Stevenson for diplomacy and Barry Bonds to hit clean up!" Jonathan said. What a great team!

He had to return to his directing duties, so James Cromwell ambled over to chat. We were very excited to be in the presence of Farmer Hoggett (Babe), and even more thrilled that he's in ST: FC!

He told us that his character, Zefram Cochrane, is the legendary 21st-century human scientist who developed the warp drive, which powers the space, and that someday, he's going to meet an alien. "It's always been one of my ambitions in life," he said.

James has the look of a Welsh miner in ST: FC, so he didn't have to sit through four hours of makeup like when he played Schreck on "Star Trek: The Next Generation." We liked the look, especially the cool cap he was wearing. In fact, we wanted it!

Unfortunately, somebody already had dibs. "My daughter wants it!" he said, laughing.

While filming ST: FC, the Borg became such a familiar sight on the Paramount Studios lot, the crew began making up Borg-isms. A few of them include: Smorgas-Borg, Chairman of the Borg, Borg Free, Under the Borgwalk, Borg on the Fourth of July and Steven Spiel-Borg.

The D.A. List

By Liz Smith

We've made our list, and we're checking it twice. Now you're gonna find out who was naughty or nice in 1996.

Naughty

The Tornado in Twister. Mr. Destructor and Co. blew everyone off —thank goodness it was just special effects!

The evil aunts in James and the Giant Peach. The Mean Queens attracted more warts than a swamp full of toads.

Baltimore Orioles' Roberto Alomar. Spitting at umpires, shame on you!

The Aliens in ID4. If there is intelligent life out there, we hope it's not as smart as these guys!

Nice

Bini the Zoo Gorilla. Saved a young boy who fell into her cage—what a thrill to be a hero gorilla.

Tom Hanks. We love all those things you do, Tom!

Rosie O'Donnell. The Queen of Nice put trash TV where it belonged—in the garbage.

Tom Cruise. Not once, not twice, but three times a hero!

Lights, Camera, Action Figures!

Yeah, having your own hairdresser, a supercool wardrobe and a mondo trailer (with a satellite dish, of course) is pretty cherry. But what's the absolute coolest thing about being a movie star? Being turned into an action figure—even if your little plastic likeness doesn't always look exactly like you.

Hunting for a Great Story

The Disney Channel put out a call for kids to enter the "Create a Great Story" contest. The best story would be made into an animated short. More than 14,000 of you submitted stories. And the winner is... "The Bug Hunt" by 12-year-old Matthew Mehne.

When we called Matthew at his house in Puerto Rico, he told us he got his idea—about two kids who meet a bilingual spider—after he caught a spider in his backyard.

When he won, he jumped up and down and didn't stop smiling all day. Now, he's eagerly awaiting his story's animated debut. (Don't bug out, Matthew—it'll air on the Disney Channel on December 14!)

Classical Comedy

Timon and Pumbaa make like Mickey in "Bumble in the Jungle"—a cartoon short set to classical

Cruella's Living Room

As we walked up to the huge iron gates (main photo), a chill crept down our spine, but not from all the snow on the ground (it was fake!). In front of us loomed the rickety residence of one of the scariest villains of all time, Cruella De Vil. Inside, cobwebs adorned the old, rotting furniture, while animal bones decorated the mantels and tabletops.

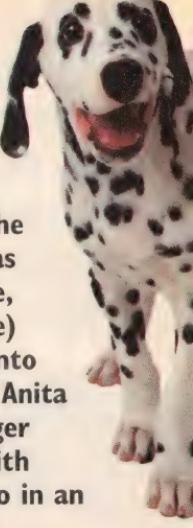

The Barnyard

In the barnyard, Cruella finds herself in a really sticky situation. We can't tell you more, or it would spoil the ending! Let's just say she flies through windows, gets kicked through doors and falls through floors, among other fates. To accommodate these stunts, the barnyard was actually more difficult to design than the detailed mansion.

Talk about getting a new leash on life! In 1961, 101 Dalmatians was an animated classic. In 1996 it's a live-action movie—and D.A. flew all the way to England to watch as it was filmed. In the movie, Cruella De Vil (Glenn Close) plots to turn dalmatians into fur coats. But dog owners Anita (Joely Richardson) and Roger (Jeff Daniels) join forces with their pets Perdy and Pongo in an effort to foil Cruella's plan.

Puppy Parade

After leaving the soundstage, we watched as a doggie scene was filmed right before our eyes: a pack of puppies racing out of a car and marching into Roger and Anita's townhouse.

The puppies shine as the real stars of 101-and we've

It was truly a dog's life on the set of 101 Dalmatians. Sure, Glenn Close and Jeff Daniels star in the movie, but did they get their own personal trainers and 24-hour kennel service? No way. The puppy stars did, easily making them the most powerful pooches in Hollywood.

To guarantee a pleasant stay on the London set, their custom kennels boasted heated pens, an exercise run and two kennel nannies to watch over the dogs.

Because the pups grew so quickly, head animal trainer Gary Gero and chief puppy trainer Mary Kay Snyder had to cast more than 200. And how did they choose? Puppy personality, that's how! "In every litter there's always one that makes himself known," said Mary Kay. Once cast, some of the dogs did "throw an attitude," she added. "They know they're stars, and they want a lot of attention. But that's OK."

On breaks, the dalmatians did what dogs do best: play! The puppies loved to chew on boxes, but their favorite toys were the trainers! "They loved attacking us, but we're like big toys anyway," said Mary Kay.

And that's what we call puppy love.

Leaders of the pack

Meet six pups who stand out from the crowd.

1 FIDGET Just call him ol' blue eye (just one!).

2 LUCKY Likes to sleep. A lot. Zzzzzzzz.

3 WHIZZER Has two black ears and not many spots on his face. He goes to the bathroom at key moments in the movie.

4 TWO-TONED One black ear (his left one).

5 DIPSTICK So named because he has a black tail that looks like it's been dipped in oil.

6 JEWEL Can you spot his necklace?

Mr. Daniels' Wild Ride

D.A. chats with one of the movie's two-legged stars.

Jeff Daniels plays Roger, the owner of a dalmatian named Pongo. Making movies with animals is nothing new for Jeff. He's starred with spiders in Arachnophobia, geese in Fly Away Home, and, probably the wildest animal of all—Jim Carrey—in Dumb and Dumber. So, of course, it comes as no surprise that he's now starring with 101 dogs!

Aaaahhh! Riding the bike as it was dragged by Pongo was Jeff's hardest stunt. "You don't think the dog is strong enough to do that, but he is," said Jeff. "It's like being pulled by a runaway horse."

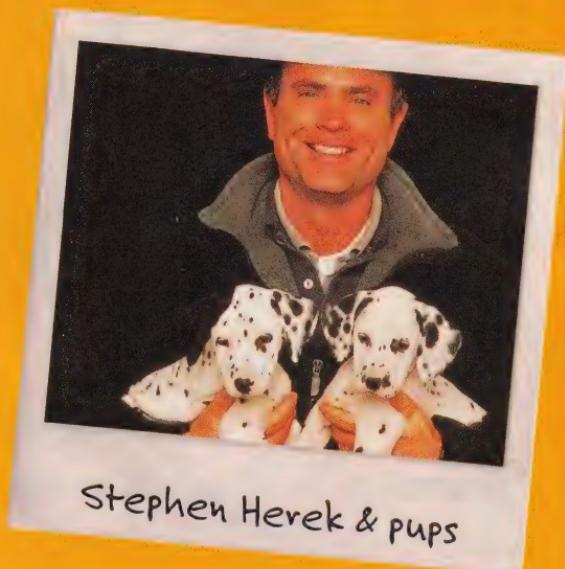

We asked Jeff what it was like the first time he saw Glenn Close as Cruella. "I jumped back about five feet!" he said.

Cruella!

Bone-ified Director

When the crew took a break, we met the director, Stephen Herek, who told us he did this movie for his daughter, Samantha, who's 7. "The job of directing 101 Dalmatians was offered to me. I was talking to Samantha about it and she said, 'Dad, I would love it if you did that movie.' And I said, 'OK.'"

Stephen told us the live-action story differs a bit from the animated version. "The live-action movie takes place in 1996. In the animated version,

Stephen Herek & pups

Roger was a songwriter; now, he's a computer game maker. Another big change is that Cruella is now a fashion designer. And the puppies don't talk—they communicate like animals communicate."

Fake Fur

We refused to say good-bye to Stephen until he gave up a secret—any secret—about the making of 101. Finally, he caved in. "Look for the fake puppies," Stephen said. "A number of scenes don't have real puppies in them. They'll look like real puppies, but they're not. See if you can spot them."

Doggone it, that's not all! Tune in next month, when D.A scopes out the latest in chic villain fashions in Cruella's House of Style. You'll also meet the bungling burglars, Horace and Jasper!

MEETS THE

Sit back and laugh as Bugs Bunny and Michael Jordan shoot off their mouths about their hit flick Space Jam.

By J. H. Smith

HARE

jams into outer space in his first film, Space Jam. In the just-released movie, Michael helps Bugs and his buds play the Monstars in an intergalactic basketball game. If the Looney Tunes win, they remain on Earth; if they lose, they become the newest attraction at the aliens' failing outer space amusement park.

Ever eager to keep Mr. Air Jordan happy, the movie studio built him his own personal full-size basketball court. And what did Bugs get? Plenty of carrots, of course, Doc!

D.A. pulled some intergalactic strings to get both Michael and Bugs to answer our cwazy questions.

D.A.: What was the hardest thing about making this movie?

M.J.: During much of the film, I'm in the middle of a totally animated world. To achieve that, I had to act alone much of the time against a "green screen," and the animators drew the characters around me later. Acting was a challenge, but acting with no other actors or action around was really tough.

B.B.: Those 5 a.m. calls on the set were tough, too. A rabbit needs his beauty sleep, ya know.

D.A.: Michael, which is harder—acting or playing basketball?

M.J.: Acting was harder than I thought it might be, but playing basketball is definitely more challenging. In movies, you can film a scene or say a line over if you mess up. In basketball, you don't get a "take two" on the court. You've got to make your shot or nail your play the first time, every time.

D.A.: And, Bugs, which is harder for you: acting or feuding with Elmer Fudd?

B.B.: That's a tough question to answer, since both those things are like second nature to me.

"All these animated characters just about wore me out," says Michael. "I think next time I'd like to act, with more humans."

Which is harder, hoops or acting? "Definitely basketball," says Michael.

D.A.: What was it like acting with a cartoon?

M.J.: Well, I wasn't acting with just any cartoon. Bugs Bunny and the Looney Tunes have been favorites of mine since I was a kid, and my own kids love them too. So it was really special getting to be a part of Space Jam and working with all those characters I've enjoyed for so many years.

D.A.: Bugs, what was it like acting with a human instead of a cartoon character?

B.B.: Well, humans, they can't do the stuff we animated guys can. Take Wile E. Coyote, for example. He does all his own stunts. I'd like to see Arnold Schwarzenegger fall off a 200-foot cliff with nothin' but a tiny umbrella for a parachute.

D.A.: What advice did you guys exchange?

M.J.: Bugs just told me to relax... and eat a lot of carrots. I definitely wasn't in any position to give an old pro like Bugs any acting advice, but I did get to teach him a thing or two about basketball.

B.B.: Michael helped me with my jump shot, and I taught him how to not crack up when you're doin' a funny scene—dat's harder than ya think.

Fast Facts

D.A. got Bruce Smith and Tony Cervone, Space Jam's co-directors of animation, to spill some juicy facts.

- The movie uses all kinds of animation techniques: live action, computer-generated imagery and two- and three-dimensional drawings.
- The final basketball game is pretty stunning, especially the huge crowd of 20,000 hand-drawn, computer-generated and live people.
- Lola Bunny, Bugs' girlfriend, stars as the first new Looney Tune in almost 40 years.
- More than 100 Looney Tunes appear in the movie—look for them in the crowd scenes.
- Almost 1,000 animators in Canada, London, Los Angeles, Chicago and Columbus, Ohio, worked on Space Jam.
- Plenty of Michael's B-ball buds join him in battling the Monstars. Keep an eye out for Charles Barkley, Larry Bird, Patrick Ewing, Larry Johnson, Muggsey Bogues and Shawn Bradley.
- Some of your fave singers like Seal, Coolio, R. Kelly, All 4 One and Monica perform on the Space Jam sound track.

—Kim Lockhart

D.A.: Bugs, who can jump higher—you or Michael?

B.B.: Rabbits are known for hoppin', not jumpin'. Let's just say, this is one area where Michael definitely excels.

D.A.: Michael, was it difficult working with Porky Pig?

M.J.: No, Porky was cool. He gets a little hot under the collar, but he's got a lot of energy. He could really hoof it down the court. By the end of the movie, he'd turned into a pretty good player. I think he'd be a natural for the Arkansas Razorbacks.

Ears to you, Michael!

D.A.: How 'bout you, Bugs, didn't ya just want to slam dunk Daffy Duck?

B.B.: What, and ruin a good basketball net? I just try to ignore Daffy—that drives him crazy.

D.A.: Michael, which of your Bulls teammates most resembles a cartoon?

M.J.: It's got to be Dennis Rodman. I think he'd take that as a compliment.

It's almost Christmas—time to confront your deeds of the past year—and there's no place to hide! Do you have potential for presents or are you a candidate for COAL in your stocking? Take our quiz and find out!

For each month, circle the choice that best describes your behavior.

(OK, OK, we realize the choices may be a bit extreme, just pick the one closest to how you acted!)

BY SUZANNE HARPER AND LIZ SMITH

In January,

- A. you got so many new toys that you gave your old toys to charity.
B. although you got a lot of new toys for Christmas, you stole a couple more from your younger brother.

In February,

- A. you gave your mom a valentine promising to take out the trash, wash the dishes and sweep the driveway without being reminded.
(And

then you did those things!)

- B. you put a stinkbug in the box of chocolates you gave your teacher for Valentine's Day.

In March,

- A. you acted like a little leprechaun and secretly did five good deeds.
B. you took St. Patrick's Day seriously and pinched everyone—and you showed no mercy, even if they were wearing teal!

In April,

- A. you spent April Fools' Day taking "Kick Me" signs off your classmates' backs, and, in return, you won their undying loyalty and devotion.
- B. April 1 was the biggest day of the year for you because you can legally create havoc—and you did!

In May,

- A. spring fever brought on spring cleaning, so you tidied up your bedroom, your locker and your desk at school.
- B. you claimed spring fever, and told your mom that you had to take every Friday and Monday off from school.

In June,

- A. when the final bell rang on the last day of school, you stayed to help your teacher pack up.
- B. when the final bell rang on the last day of school, you led your class in a chant: "No more pencils, no more books, no more teacher's dirty looks!" (Extra points if the chant was so loud that the principal had to investigate.)

In July,

- A. you finished your summer reading list, got plenty of fresh air and exercise, and put your TV in the closet—it was reruns season anyway.

- B. you perfected the art of cannonball jumping, water balloon throwing and Super Soaker squirting. (But you never, ever took a bath!)

In August,

- A. you were so bored that you started on next summer's reading list.
- B. you were so bored that you didn't find trouble, trouble found you—and you set a new record for days being grounded.

In September,

A. on the first day of school, you brought your fresh notebook, you sharpened your pencils, you wore new clothes, and you were the first one in line for class.

B. on the first day of school, you lost your notebook, you broke your pencils, your hair was not brushed, and you were tardy.

In October,

A. by 8 p.m. on Halloween night, you were back at home eating your candy bars.

B. we don't even want to think about what tricks you played on Halloween!

In November,

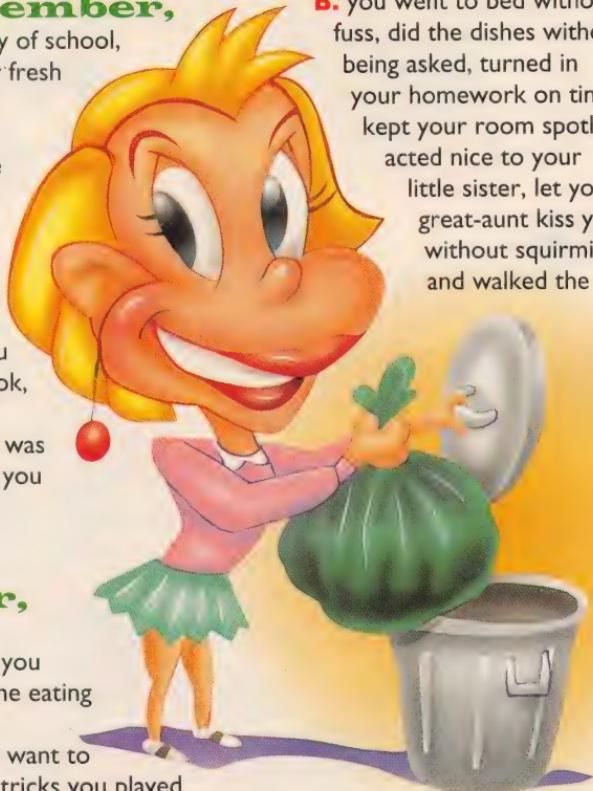

A. you were the kids' table monitor, in charge of controlling spills and keeping the noise down. (Your younger cousins walked in fear.)

B. at Thanksgiving dinner, you created a mashed potato sculpture, flung brussels sprouts at your little brother and blew bubbles in your milk until you were told to leave the table.

In December,

A. you continued acting like the sweet, caring, loyal kid you are.

B. you went to bed without a fuss, did the dishes without being asked, turned in your homework on time, kept your room spotless, acted nice to your little sister, let your great-aunt kiss you without squirming, and walked the dog even when it wasn't your turn. (We have two words for you: Too late!)

Scoring:

Add up the number of times you checked A and the number of times you checked B.

If you've got more A's than B's, you're nice. Get ready to rake in the loot! (And can we be your new best friend?)

If you've got more B's than A's, you're naughty. Don't expect too much under the tree—but invite us to your next party!

THE ADVENTURE

FILES

Each month, Mr. Adventure (real name: Sean Plottner) travels the world in search of the ultimate in danger, challenge and daredevil excitement. His mission: Go where few have dared. Do what others only dream. Test the limits...and live the adventure!

Hairy, but harmless

Afraid of spiders? Fear not the tarantula. The reputation of this hairy arachnid scares many, yet no one has ever died from a tarantula bite. Real adventurers know the creepy crawler's venom leaves bite victims with a burning, swollen mark for only a few hours.

Yikes! The world's highest waterfall plunges more than twice the height of the Empire State Building. Here are the three highest falls:

Angel Falls • Venezuela • 3,212 feet

Tugela Falls • South Africa • 3,110 feet

Jostedal • Norway • 2,625 feet

Now turn the page for my next adventure: mushing through Minnesota with a team of mighty sled dogs. ●.....►

Remember: It's an amazing world. So don't just sit there—Adventure On!

MUI

By Sean Plottner

Meet the world's most incredible athletes: sled dogs. Eight of these wonderdogs led me on a three-day expedition across a frozen winter wonderland.

Together we endured severe cold (35 degrees below zero), mighty deep snow (three feet and more falling) and nonstop adventure!

Pup Power!

My team's fearless leaders, Foxy and Brass (left), guided us down the snowy trail. At night I bunked down in round tent-like shelters called yurts (above) while the dogs curled up outside on beds of straw.

S H I !

Trail Blazers

My dogs stopped for nothing—including, sometimes, me. And they loved to show off by bounding over dangerous creek crossings.

Making Sense of the Mush

Where we mushed: Our expedition took us across more than 50 miles of the wild and rough wilderness of northern Minnesota, where we saw plenty of moose and beaver. I traveled about 18 miles each day with several other mushers and their teams. "Mush," by the way, comes from the French term marcher, "to move."

Top Speed: About 20 miles per hour; faster down hills.

Top Musher: My guide was Arleigh Jorgensen, a seasoned dogsledder with more than 20 years of racing experience. "You are an extension of the dog team," he told me. "That relationship is key."

Agony of the Feet

Professional sled dogs don't wear booties for warmth, but to protect their feet from wear and tear. Without booties, ice balls may accumulate between a dog's toes and cause sores, or sharp bits of ice could cut up a paw.

DOGGED

Determination

What has eight tails, two runners and barks when it isn't moving? My team of sled dogs. Here's a look at them:

Lead dogs

Position: Out in front

Names: Brass and Foxy

Job Requirements: Big ego. Outstanding athleticism.

Must get a kick out of making decisions.

Claim to Fame: Brass frequently looked back and stared me right in the eyes as if to say, "Hey, Adventure guy, I'm running this show. Let's move!"

Point dogs

(also called Swing Dogs in Alaska and Canada)

Position: Directly behind lead dogs

Names: Cheyenne and Guru

Job Requirements: Forget thinking. Forget leadership.

Must run fast, that's all!

Claim to Fame: Their size. Point dogs are smaller than you'd think. Small dogs run faster.

Team dogs

Position: Directly behind point dogs

Names: Heather and Damien

Job Requirements: No experience necessary.

Good position for entry-level pups eager to learn the ways of the sled team.

Claim to Fame: Making dumb mistakes. But they'll learn!

Wheel dogs

Position: Directly in front of sled

Names: Reggie and Ershal

Job Requirements: Pulling power and mental toughness! These guys have the most work to do and

Musher

Wheel Dogs

Team Dogs

Point Dogs

Lead Dogs

get the fewest breaks. They're stuck with finishing the jobs of going up hills and around corners.

Claim to Fame: Getting the most attention from the musher.

Musher

Position: Standing on sled runners

Name: Mr. Adventure

Job Requirements: Ability to issue commands, brake sled, run up hills, and duck under branches.

Claim to Fame: Occasionally forgetting to duck under branches!

Barking Up the Wrong Tree

If dogs are a musher's best friend, then trees are his worst enemy: Their branches can smack you in the face. On tight turns, you'll want to jump off the sled to avoid becoming embedded in a tree!

Barking Out Commands

As a musher, you must know these basic dog sled orders. Getting your team to obey them may be another story!

Gee means "turn right"

Haw means "turn left"

Whoa means "stop" (say it sloooowly)

No means "stop fighting/quit acting up/listen to me!"

Hike or Mash

(accompanied by a couple of tongue clicks) means "start moving!"

Homeward Bound

The dogs pulled extra hard during the final leg of our journey, a long ride across Poplar Lake. "They can smell home up ahead," explained Arleigh. Suddenly, my sled plunged six inches into a layer of wet slush coating the frozen lake. The dogs yanked us out, of course, with my boots, their paws and the sled runners encased in freshly frozen ice.

Legends of the Fall

"You're not a musher until you've lost your team," says Arleigh Jorgensen, my dogsled partner. I officially became a musher on Day Three, when my team bolted before I was ready to go. They pulled the sled right out from under my feet, knocking me to the ground. As I fell, it was goodbye, dogs; goodbye, sled...hello, cold snowy ground.

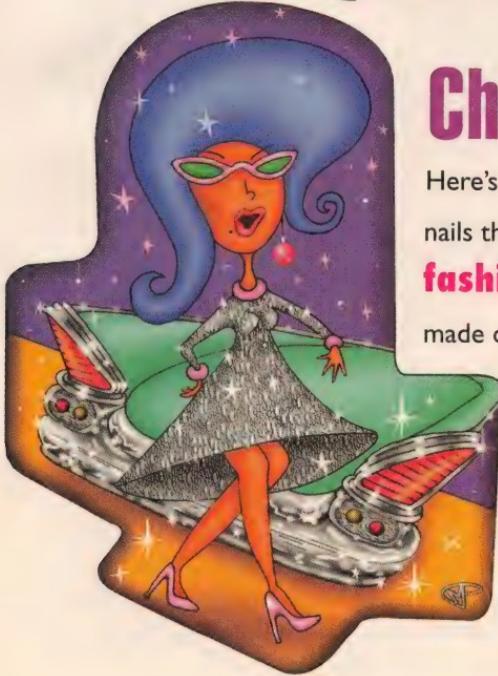

Forget Frostbite

Despite the insanely low temperature—it rarely nudged above zero—I never felt cold. What keeps a musher warm? Good gear, a positive attitude, and lots of running up hills to lighten the dogs' load.

D.A.: Why did you start collecting business cards?

J.M.: I used to collect baseball cards, but business cards are free!

D.A.: How do you get the cards?

J.M.: I go into businesses and pick up cards from the counter or trade with other ABCC members. Sometimes my relatives pick up cards for me when they travel. I have cards from Australia, Canada, Greece, South Africa, Sweden and France.

Jeff dons a tailor-made coat, constructed entirely out of D.A. staffers' business cards!

D.A.: Which card is your all-time favorite?

J.M.: A business card for a truck stop in Greece. It's shaped like a stop sign. It's bigger than my hand!

D.A.: How about the coolest one?

J.M.: A card from a disc jockey with a bunch of holographic records on it.

D.A.: And what's the weirdest-shaped one?

J.M.: One from a foot surgeon with a cutout of a foot that flips open.

D.A.: Do you have business cards?

J.M.: No, but I'm getting some. They'll say, "Jeff McAleer, Business Card Collector. Cleaning out your old office drawers? Send your business cards to me!"

Space-Off

Sometimes, hockey seems out of this world. Just ask Robert Thirsk, a Canadian-born astronaut who took some precious hockey goodies onboard the space shuttle Columbia earlier this year. A longtime hockey fan, Thirsk wanted to honor Bobby Orr, a legendary Boston Bruins defenseman who helped his team win the 1970 Stanley Cup finals. So Orr gave Thirsk his bloody jersey and championship ring, which ended up floating inside the shuttle more than 150 miles above the ground, just like the astronauts. But when Columbia came back to earth, so did Thirsk: Orr's jersey and ring were only loaners.

Rockin' Jocks

Everyone knows Shaquille O'Neal likes to jam as well as slam—his rap CDs were big hits for the big man. But he's not the only athlete with musical talent. Think of the band (not to mention the team) you could put together with these multi-talents!

Wayman Tisdale

Forward, Phoenix Suns

Musical talent: Plays bass guitar

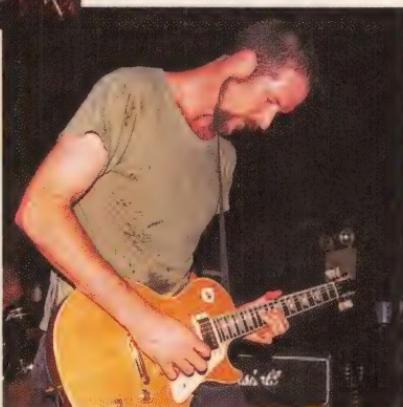

Wayman travels with his basketball bag in one hand and his guitar strapped to his back. His band, Wayman Tisdale and the Fifth Quarter, has opened for Natalie Cole, David Sanborn and other big-time musicians.

Jack McDowell

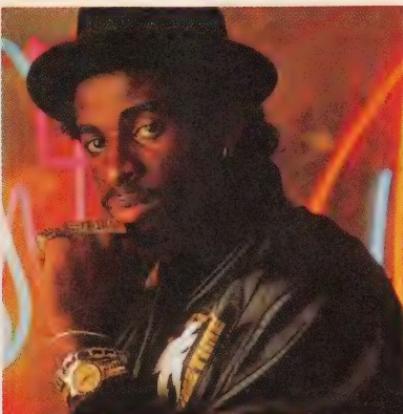

Pitcher, Cleveland Indians

Musical talent: Plays guitar

"Black Jack" shreds to music by the Smashing Pumpkins and Pearl Jam, and his band, Stick Figure, once toured with the Smithereens. He even hangs out with Eddie Vedder!

Other Jammin' Jocks: Mike Piazza, Los Angeles Dodgers catcher (and drummer/guitar player),

Deion Sanders

Cornerback and receiver,
Dallas Cowboys

Musical talent: Rapper

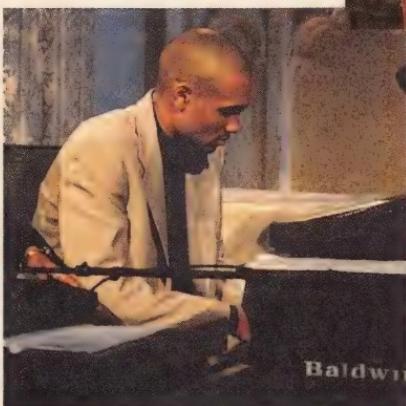

He catches touchdowns.
He intercepts passes. And he sings! Last year, Deion released his first rap
recording, appropriately titled Prime Time.

David Robinson

Center, San Antonio Spurs

Musical talent: Plays saxophone

Mr. Robinson mellows out by playing in his home recording studio and even writes his own tunes.

Grant Hill

Forward, Detroit Pistons

Musical talent: Plays piano

Grant has shown off his jazzy keyboard style on TV commercials and on the "Late Show with David Letterman."

Ricky Watters, Philadelphia Eagles running back (and rapper), Kyle Petty, NASCAR driver (and singer/guitar player), Alexi Lalas, New England Revolution star (and guitar player), Gail Graham, LPGA golf pro (and singer).

Denzel Washington

“He stood about five-foot, nine-inches tall, but he was a giant. Billy Thomas. He ran the Boys & Girls Club where I grew up. Now, I know today it's different. Young people face problems I never even had to think about.

But that's why now, more than ever, we need the Boys & Girls Club. It's a positive place where thousands of people like Billy Thomas help young people succeed. Does it work? It did for me.”

COMICS ZONE

WELCOME TO THIS MONTH'S COMICS ZONE

While I was looking at this month's 101 Dalmatians comic, I made a startling discovery: I think Cruella De Vil is cool.

Vile, yes; ruthless, absolutely. Bumping off cute little puppies to make a fur coat is totally wack in my book.

But after seeing Glenn Close as Cruella in the live-action version of 101 Dalmatians, I must admit she's a snappy dresser. Dig those gloves and that awesome veiled hat. Her black-and-white threads look way stylin'.

I wonder if people will think I'm weird if I come to work in a big hat with a veil?

This month's comics: Two villains you love to hate are at it again. In "Cruella's Very Furry Christmas" you-know-who tries to spoil everyone's favorite holiday, and in "Lines of Allegiance" Demona has a scheme to enslave the Gargoyles.

Secret Tips for the Holiday's Hottest Games

D.A. gives you the lowdown on beating 10 new video games. By Jason R. Rich

Psst! Want the secret password? The sneaky strategy? The inside tip? After D.A. staffers picked our 10 favorite new video games, we snuck into the game designers' offices and cracked their safes. We found all kinds of playing tips and secret codes that we're passing on to you—but don't tell anyone where you got them!

CRASH BANDICOOT

This game offers two endings. You'll see one ending if you defeat Dr. Neo Cortex. To see the special ending, you must beat the Doc, collect all 26 gems as you explore the game's 32 levels, and go through the door in The Great Hall. PlayStation

DESCENT

To gain access to all levels during game play, press: Triangle, Square, Square, Triangle, Circle, Circle, Square, Square, Triangle, Circle, Square, Square.

To earn extra lives, Mega Wowie Zowie and all-level access, press: Triangle, X, Square, Square, Triangle, Circle, Circle, Square, Triangle, Square, Circle, X. PlayStation

DISRUPTOR

In the middle of Level 2 (Chemical Factory), you'll approach a large river and a fence. To get over the fence, go back to the top of the riverbed, line yourself up correctly, and take a running jump. Then grab the special ammo and automatic pistol.

There's a secret area in Level 4 (Pirate Base on Jupiter) that you can reach when you step into the last long elevator. First, look toward the outdoors, then turn 90 degrees to the left. Go halfway up the elevator. When you see the pirate, you can step off the elevator if you time your exit just right. Here you'll find a new weapon called the Lock-On Cannon. PlayStation

DONKEY KONG COUNTRY 3: DIXIE KONG'S DOUBLE TROUBLE

When you reach Belcha's Barn, you must defeat the giant Barrel Boss. As the Boss spits barrels at you, smash each one, pick up the bug that's inside, and toss it into the Barrel Boss's mouth. Each time the Boss eats a bug, he will burp and then slide backward. Your goal is to get him to fall off the platform. (If you miss the Boss's mouth, he'll move forward instead of backward.) Super NES

MADDEN NFL 97

Passing is the easiest way to move the ball, and the quick slants are a tough route for the defense to stop. If you are in a passing situation, a draw play up the middle can catch the defense sleeping. Diving into the ball carrier is a good way to pop the ball loose if you're looking for a turnover. Be sure to use the bluff mode when you call your plays if you suspect your human opponent(s) might be watching your calls.

When playing the Super NES version, you can override the salary cap option by pressing the Y, A, Select + Left Trigger, and A buttons at the warning screen. Super Nintendo, Sega Genesis, Sony Playstation, Sega Saturn, PC

NHL 97

The key to scoring is to shoot on net when you have a player in front to screen the goalie. The goalie won't see the puck and will make a random save. Also, try shooting early and crashing the net for rebounds. The puck often bounces off the goalie's pads.

If you're playing the Genesis version, press the A, B, C buttons at the same time at the start menu and hit Start. You'll get the EA

SPORTS and Renegade Teams—both are stacked with talent. Sega Genesis, Sony Playstation, Sega Saturn, PC

NIGHTS

In the Splash Garden stage, have NIGHTS float on top of the shooting geyser. He'll be pushed to an alternate track that's filled with extra goodies. When you reach Stick Canyon and must control Elliot or Claris, take the elevator located at the tower's base to get to the top. To get through this dream, the trick is to fly as high as you can.

Sega Saturn

PILOTWINGS 64

With this cool trick you can go directly from the New York stage to the San Francisco stage near the end of the game. Start on Little States Island and select either the Rocketbelt or the Gyrocopter. Travel west from Central Park to the building with an open door. Walk inside past the N64 logo, and look for another door to exit. You'll find yourself in San Francisco.

Nintendo 64

SUPER MARIO 64

After you've collected 10 Stars, stand in the center of the castle's foyer (in front of the stairs) and have Mario look up into the sunlight. He'll be transported to a special stage where you can collect eight Red Coins, stomp a large Red Exclamation Switch, and get Mario's Winged Cap.

Nintendo 64

TETRIS ATTACK

When playing the one-player, Stage Clear mode, use these passwords to jump to higher levels:

GAME BOY / SUPER NES

Stage 1-5	73K310D8	/	N4JZN5KZ
Stage 2-5	10JRR0C8	/	&RG8NB&X
Stage 3-5	2KTIM0L8	/	XXG!NG15
Stage 4-5	0QLP20L8	/	&GTMNHZ?

Alert the stars.

Wake up the moon.

Summon Saturn. Blue is back.

SONIC 3D BLAST

New Sonic™ 3D Blast™ for Sega Saturn is a three-dimensional trip through 14 levels of spinning, slipping, jumping, and stomping.

There's fog. There's rain. There's snow. There's Robotnik. And if things get hectic, there are new moves like The Blast Attack to put nasties in their place.

So power up, head for Saturn, and prepare for a Sonic adventure that is not of this earth.

Alert the Troops!

Atten-hut! Green Army Men will take over your computer with the Toy Story CD-ROM.

By Kim Lockhart

Howdy, pardner! Toy Story, already available for Sega Genesis and Super Nintendo, is now on CD-ROM. You guide Woody through 17 game stages, helping him ride Rex through a toy world gone mad, escape from Sid's room and steer a radio-controlled car through a changing obstacle course with Buzz Lightyear.

With the help of some Green Army Men and a baby monitor, we bugged the producer's office to discover some of the game's top secrets:

- If Woody falls off the screen in Andy's Room, he'll be hurt—but if you quickly bounce up to a piece of furniture or a ball, he may not lose a life.
- In Level Three (Pizza Planet), there's a secret room in the Claw Machine behind the coin tube. Shatter the tube with Woody's pull-string, then jump left through the flowing coins. Woody will disappear. Keep jumping and he'll end up in the secret room where he'll collect a Tin Star and a Cowboy Hat.
- When Sid sets Woody's hat on fire with his magnifying glass, Woody loses his ability to jump and whip. Rush to the nearest cereal bowl (avoid the yo-yos!) and dunk Woody's head so he can cool off and regain his powers.

I want you to help my buddy Woody win this game!

D.A. WISH LIST

December 1996

Dear Mom and Dad,

Since I got some really dorky stuff from you last year, I thought I'd help you out a little. If I get everything I want this year, I promise to be really, REALLY good, and...

- do all my homework
- not burp at the dinner table
- clean my room, and not just stuff everything into the closet.

Love,
Me

Ticket/Pinocchio/Sweepstakes Rules

NO PURCHASE NECESSARY

1. HOW TO ENTER: Hand print full name and address (city, state or providence and zip or mail code), daytime phone number with area code and birth date, on a postcard with the answers to the following questions: "What kind of wood is Pinocchio made from?"; "What nickname do Pinocchio's classmates give him? (Hint: It's one of the main characters in Toy Story); and "The talking cricket is named Jiminy, True or False"; and mail it, postage prepaid, to Pinocchio/Ticket, DISNEY ADVENTURES, 500 South Buena Vista Street, Burbank, CA 91521-6153, postmarked by December 30, 1996. 2. ENTRY LIMITATIONS: Enter as often as you wish but only one per envelope. No mechanical or photocopied reproductions permitted. Open only to children between 7 and 14 upon entering who are legal residents of the U.S.A. (excluding its territories, military installations and commonwealth) or Canada (excluding Quebec) and not employees of Disney Magazine Publishing, Inc., its parent, subsidiary or affiliated companies, the advertising, promotion or fulfillment agencies of any of them, nor members of their immediate families. Not responsible for printing errors or inaccurate, incomplete, stolen, lost, illegible, mutilated, postage-due, misdirected, delayed or late entries or mail, or equipment or telephone malfunction. 3. RESERVATIONS: Void where prohibited or restricted by law and subject to all federal, provincial, state and local laws and regulations. All entries become the sponsor's property and will not be returned. By entering this sweepstakes, each entrant agrees to be bound by these rules and the decisions of the judges. Each winner accepting a prize consents to the use of name/likeness for advertising, trade and promotional purposes without further compensation, except where prohibited by law. Not responsible for damages, losses or injury resulting from the acceptance, use, misuse or possession of any prize nor for lost or misdirected prizes.

4. WINNERS: Will be notified by mail (after January 30, 1997). The failure of a potential winner (parents/legal guardians) to verify address and execute and return an Affidavit of Eligibility/Release within ten (10) days from the date of notification, or the return of a notification as undeliverable, will result in disqualification and the selection of an alternate winner. In the event of any other noncompliance with rules and conditions, prizes may be awarded to alternate winners. All Canadian residents will be required to correctly answer a mathematical skills test to be eligible to collect their prizes. All taxes are the sole responsibility of the winners (parents/legal guardians). For a list of winners (after January 30, 1997) and/or sweepstakes rules, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Rules/Winners, Pinocchio/Ticket, Disney Adventures, 500 South Buena Vista Street, Burbank, CA 91521-6153. Washington and Vermont residents may omit the return postage. 5. PROCEDURES: Sweepstakes begins on November 19, 1996 and ends on December 30, 1996. Winners will be selected from all eligible entries received in a random drawing on or about January 30, 1997. Odds of winning depend on the number of eligible entries received. 6. PRIZES: Twenty-five (25) Pinocchio videos (approximate retail value: $19.98). Total approximate retail value of all prizes is $499.50. Limit of one prize per person, family or household. Prizes are not redeemable for cash or transferable and no substitutions allowed except at the sole discretion of the sponsor, who may substitute prizes of equal or greater value. All prizes will be awarded.
